Lord Previs Has Disappeared! What Will This Mean For The Future of Quebec?

— After the battle at the Previs Mansion the family has been seriously damaged in its relations all over the city. The police are looking for everyone involved, especially Guy Levi and Luna - who have both had dealings with them before and were seen at the scene of the event. Our advice is to both of them to deal with the authorities who have finally gotten to the point of being able to look for suspects due to some confusion in the police force.

Church Threshold Annihilated

Catholic Stronghold Weakest Ever

— The Church of Our Lady has been fighting off a lot of different manifestations recently. Being the oldest fully held Church in the new world. The main place the church has been holding since Columbus. This means they've been getting demons, vampires, and every other miscellaneous evil that could attack.

Cops Reacting Poorly to Recent Events

Considering the Value of the Unite

— The cops are on a bit of a rampage. Several people and their charges have started to come into the light. As Quebec we've been blessed and cursed by having the Unite de Sorceriere around. They allowed people to get away from their problems - they actually could keep people locked up if they were magic. Of course, they were annoying if you were breaking different laws just by existing (happens more than you might think) but overall they were a balancing force for the city's mortals.

Church Too Busy With Own Problems to Help City

Joseph Brown, Obscuritùs

This is one of those things that came out of the evil that went down a week back. Everything possible that could have gone wrong seems to have happened. At least the Church hasn't had the White Court ruining it. The whole place is of course being defended by the Champions, who've had their hands full. Between the police, and the Champions pulling triple duty just to defend the Church, the streets haven't been as safe as they have been. This move has been better for the White Court than one would expect. The White Court has been running rampant as they've been restoring their power bases all over. Sure - the Winter Court has decided to oppose them for some unknown reason (beyond just the Winter Knight), but this is terrible. ■

Uncertain Future for House Previs, Obscuritùs

Joseph Brown, Obscuritùs

In a possibly related event the entire city has been going slightly strange, as many of the local personages were suddenly freed of mental domination as Lord Previs now seems to be dead. His family however is still active in the area, with Jean Previs leading the weakened house, possibly as a rather transparent catspaw for Lady Candace Previs. Of course, this might be a ruse as well.

The current and most close to home consequence of this is that the Obscuritùs is funded jointly by House Previs and Notre Dame du Bascil-ica. The funding for the paper has of course, now, mostly, disappeared. This is one of those things that makes my life harder sometimes. However - anything people can do to help would be appreciated.

These are dangerous times ahead - and more is needed. ■

No More Unite de Sorcière

Joseph Brown, Obscuritùs

With the death of both Jacques Reid and Stephen Ward the entire Unite has disappeared, the entire police force has been damaged. The whole force has been hiring more and more, and the growth of the force has been mostly those who have had their eyes closed. Now the goal is to work with cops. Which leads to the bastards starting to arrest the good guys and their problems. And the big bads

- never stay in jail. The cops have finally started making our kinds of arrests again, and not very effective ones. These cops are not exactly the best kind anymore - as much as we all hated Stephen, is this better? ■

I've Got A Bad Feeling About This

ANONYMOUS

Personally, I don't understand it. Every night lately, I've been hearing these rumbles underground. It's the darndest thing. Sometimes, when there isn't anything below ground I can hear these sounds, like there's a plane flying too low. But I never see anything. I think something bad is happening soon. I just hope that someone does something about it.

Uncle Qul's Homemade Olive Oil

Hi, I'm Qul Zjarr, founder and owner of Uncle Qul's Homemade Olive Oil. But you may also know me as the Great Warden of Quebec City. When I'm not defending the city from evil and upholding the laws of magic, I like to cook with Uncle Qul's Homemade Olive Oil. It's high quality, and at a price anyone can afford. I'd also just like to say that 100% of the proceeds will go towards bettering the lives of children. Because here at Uncle Qul's Homemade Olive Oil, we care about the future.

For anyone interested, we will be having a open house at the Fight On! school for anyone interested in sampling our wonderful products. It's entirely free for anyone who wants to stop by, and it is a wonderful opportunity.

Since Monday, Uncle Qul's Homemade Olive Oil has been bringing joy into the lives of children, and love into your home. Remember, it's the taste you deserve.

An Interview With The Warden

GHOBE YAS

As most of my readers know, I usually run an advice column here in the Obscuritùs. But this week, I'd like to take a slightly different approach to bring you some news that everyone should know about.

Most of us have heard of the great deeds done by our Warden, Qul Zjarr. A few lucky ones have even been able to watch as he defeated a terrible necromancer, destroyed an army of hellhounds, and fought off ghouls in the Never Never, selflessly risking his life daily in order to protect this city. But today, that wonderful hero has taken yet another step towards making this city an incredible place to live.

This week, our Warden has created Uncle Qul's Homemade Olive Oil. This company sells its products at low prices, and as a wonderful bonus, 100% of their profits go to charity. I was fortunate enough to get an interview with Mr. Zjarr in order to talk to him about this new venture.

G.Y: Hello, Mr. Zjarr.

Q.Z: Qul, please.

G.Y: Of course, Qul. Might I say you are looking fantastic this evening?

Q.Z: Why thank you, you as well.

G.Y: So, let's get right to it. You've been protecting this city for some time now, and now you are starting a charity company? Where do you find the time?

Q.Z: Well Ghobe, it's not easy. I devote my life to bringing a brighter future to this city, and I spend every moment I have working towards it.

G.Y: But surely you must spend some personal time. Obviously you must spend a lot of time working out.

Q.Z: Oh, does it show?

G.Y: It really does.

Q.Z: Well, it's really on-the-job training. Battling those that wish to do us harm, and defending the innocents is a work out all on it's own.

G.Y: Well, that is certainly interesting. But tell us what's on everybody's minds: What's the deal with your new charities?

Q.Z: I'm glad you asked. The Uncle Qul's Homemade Olive Oil Company will go a long way towards our goals. But we'll still need more donations from the generous people of Quebec City. Our plans are to build Quebec City a new Children's Hospital, which will be almost fully funded by Uncle Qul's Olive Oil. But we have plans for a new Children's Home, Animal Shelter, Soup Kitchen, and Homeless Shelter. We can't afford this all, but with donations from the good people of Quebec City, we can build a better future.

G.Y: Well, that certainly sounds like an incredible project. Let's all hope that we can achieve it.

Well, readers. That's it for this week. I encourage all of you to donate to the charities set up by our wonderful Warden, or buy a bottle of his Olive Oil. Every cent puts this city closer to a better future.

Ding Dong The Witch Is Dead?

LUNA

We are entering happy times in Quebec. Those who once had exceeding power over the citizens are now weakened. Previs has, shall we say, left the building. In celebration of these good things, I, Luna, am throwing a party. Come one and come all in celebration over our triumphs.

All those affiliated with the church are special guests, to show our appreciation for their constant defense against the powers of evil in this town.

All those interested in the party should come to Fight On! tonight at 7pm.
